BOSTON, AUGUST 27.

LAST Friday died here, and next day was decently interred, Mr. William Godfrey, aged forty years. He came from the iſland of Antigua for the recovery of his health, and had been in town but a few days.

Meſſrs. FLEETS. "I AM informed the notable Mr. Cutler has laid attachments on the eſtates of Meſſrs. Pierpoint and Davis, for the intolerable abuſe he now ſays he ſuffered from the perſons whoſe treatment he then owned was civil, humane, and benevolent. I had ſettled my opinion that there was too much good ſenſe on both ſides the queſtion to draw the focus of the miniſterial mirror again on this province. We have already loſt ſome blood, and much intereſt; and after the diſpoſition of the people had once been ſo thoroughly manifeſted, one could ſcarce imagine another trial would ſo ſpeedily be made upon them. An ignorant herd, incapable of realizing remote conſequences, may eaſily be tolled into an acquieſence with the firſt inſtances of coercion, and flatter themſelves that a ſubmiſſion to authority is the path of ſecurity; but to the enlightened inhabitants of this ancient colony, the gulph is too plain to admit a moment's heſitation whether any degree of force or fraud ſhall urge us a hair's breadth towards it. Mr. Cutler may read a vote of the reſpectable body of the trade and inhabitants of Boſton, paſſed on Tueſday the 7th inſtant, whereby they have unanimouſly agreed to ſupport their reſpective committees in the execution of every commiſſion they have been, are or may be charged with from ſaid body; and Mr. Cutler well knows that theſe perſons in the mild perſuaſions they uſed with him, not to expoſe himſelf to the juſt reſentment of a whole continent, which his imprudence was very wantonly drawing upon him, meaned him no injury, and further that they, to the utmoſt of their power, endeavoured to ſcreen him from the indignation of the people, which his repeated inſults had often fired to an almoſt irrepreſſible pitch. In this caſe Mr. Cutler purſues theſe gentlemen as criminals, and declares that they with force, arms, &c. did him cruelly treat, and to his great damage, &c.

"How learned Mr. Cutler may be in the law I have no diſpoſition to determine, but am free to declare, that in order to render an action criminal, in the eye of the law, there muſt be full proof of a guilty mind, an intention to harm and diſtreſs. I am confident no jury on this continent, legally taken, will find ſuch intention in Meſſrs. Pierpoint and Davis. A ſurvey of the conduct of the body of trade and inhabitants of this town, of whoſe votes theſe gentlemen were the executors, will indubitably manifeſt, that a ſupport of the laws and conſtitution, and thereby the ſafety and happineſs of their country, in the moſt gentle and peaceable manner, was the invariable ſcope of their intention and all the conſequent actions; whereas the declared deſign of their oppoſers and oppreſſors, is to overthrow the conſtitution, and ſubject the whole continent to the ſole power and pleaſure of an abſolute tyranny, in a moſt abandoned m-------y, with a p---------t alien to, and uninfluenced by this people, entirely at their devotion. This is an intolerable uſurpation, big with inevitable ruin and certain deſtruction; which in this very action aims to commence its ravage in this colony. But know ye Trellians, Empſons, Dudleys, Jefferies, M-----ds, O----s, R---ls's, and all your aiders, and abettors, that in the execution of any decrees, contrary to the ſpirit of Magna Charta, which exempts every man from the force of laws made without his conſent; know I ſay that in the conſtitution of this empire, there is a proviſion in ſuch caſe to diſturb you; and I would recommend it to the ſerious conſideration of every ambitious officer, civil or military, whether it might not be their intereſt to put off the day, when an aſſertion of this right will ſhake your uſurped pretenſions to their foundation, and perhaps very deſervedly bury yourſelves in the ruins. If you recede we may all live and be happy; if we recede, the empire is inſtantly involved in everlaſting deſtruction.

DETERMINATUS."

SEPTEMBER 6. Tueſday laſt the Reverend Mr. Whitefield ſet out for Salem, Marblehead, Portſmouth, &c. have while here preached to very crowded audiences, at ſome times it was thought there has been between five or ſix thouſand ſouls.

We hear the ſtudents of the ſenior claſs of Harvard college, have engaged to take their degrees the enſuing commencement, in cloth of our own manufactory.

On Tueſday laſt the following notification was ſent to the inhabitants of the town, viz. "THE Merchants of this town, and all others connected with trade, or in any manner dependant upon it, are hereby notified, that the committee appointed at their late meeting, to conſider the moſt effectual meaſures to ſtrengthen the union of the colonies, and ſupport the non-importation agreement, are now ready to make a report; a meeting is therefore deſired at Faneuil-Hall to-morrow, (Wedneſday) at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to conſider the ſame. At this juncture, when the merchants of New-York have ſhamefully violated the agreement, and forſaken the cauſe of their country, when thoſe who wiſh to have the chains faſtened upon us, are aſſiduous in their endeavours to ſcatter the ſeeds of diſcord among the other colonies, when they are caſting the moſt malicious aſperſions on the merchants of this town and provinces, and are artfully endeavouring to render them particularly odious in the eyes of the world, when we feel the hand of oppreſſion and tyranny daily growing more and more heavy upon us, when the enemies of America, deſtitute of ſhame or remorſe, inſolently begin to laugh at her ſtruggles for freedom; and already flatter themſelves, that in a little time deſpotic power ſhall gain a compleat triumph in a land of liberty. At ſuch a time, and under ſuch circumſtances, every one will judge that it is the duty of each individual in the community, who loves his country, to attend public meetings; there to deliberate and conſult with candour, to determine with wiſdom, and to execute with that fortitude which becomes thoſe only who are reſolved to be free.----

N. B. The committee appointed to treat with the trade of Providence and Newport, are alſo ready to make their report, and lay before the body, the reſolves of both ſaid towns, in conſequence of the interview with their committee, which they have lately received."

A meeting was accordingly holden on Wedneſday, when Mr. Henderſon Inches was choſen Moderator; but the meeting being ſmall, it was adjourned to this morning, at nine o'clock.

SEPTEMBER 10. The province tax for the enſuing year is 91,500l. whereof the town of Boſton pays 10,445l. 18s. 11d.

SEPTEMBER 13. It is currently reported his Honour has ſummary to meet the general aſſembly in any town of the province, Boſton excepted.

The ſeizure of a certain fortreſs is the cauſe of MUCH CONVERSATION.

Letters by the packet, intimate a deſign againſt the charter of this province, which, in its preſent condition, is an Old Parchment.

Extract of a letter from the Bay of Fundy, in the province of Nova-Scotia, Auguſt 12, 1770.

"His Excellency Lord William Campbell in his Majeſty's ſhip Senegal, commanded by Sir Thomas Rich, Baronet, arrived this day at the iſland of Campo Bello, commonly called Paſſmaquady, in his tour which he is making round the weſtern diſtrict of the province. On the 16th the headmen of the Paſſmaquady tribe of Indians waited upon his Excellency with Mr. Pebbie as interpreter, when his Lordſhip proceeded from the ſhip under a diſcharge of artillery, accompanied by Sir Thomas Rich, and his private ſecretary Captain Gould, to the houſe of William Owen, Eſq; proprietor of the iſland; where his Excellency opened the talk with explaining the great indulgence with which the ſavages were favoured by his Britannic Majeſty, not only in the enjoyment of their religious but likewiſe of all their civil liberties; they ſeemed much pleaſed with the affability of his Excellency's behaviour during the conference, and took their leave with all the appearance of being moſt truly ſatisfied. His Lordſhip gave them a ſuit of Engliſh colours, to which they promiſed to pay the ſtricteſt reſpect and fidelity. On the next day, the 17th, his Excellency attended by Sir Thomas Rich, William Owen, Eſq; and Captain Gould, went to Point Pleaſant, where the whole Paſſmaquady tribe were encamped, and were received with the greateſt demonſtrations of joy, the Engliſh colours flying, and a general diſcharge of muſquetry. His Lordſhip being conducted into the chieftain's wigwam, received freſh aſſurances from all the elders of the tribe of their invariable ſincere attachment to the Britiſh intereſt: In the evening when his Lordſhip departed, the whole encampment was illuminated; and after a general diſcharge of muſquetry, the dance of joy continued on the beach, whilſt his Excellency continued in view."

SEPTEMBER 17. The ſhip Lydia, Captain Scott, who went from hence for London with return goods, has returned again in leſs than four months; and we hear has no goods on board but what are agreeable to the non-importation agreement; he has alſo brought with him a large quantity of caſh for ſome merchants here. In Captain Scott's veſſel came a number of weavers and other manufacturers.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor having received his Majeſty's orders to withdraw from his Majeſty's Caſtle William the garriſon in the pay of this province, and his Majeſty having been pleaſed further to order, that the ſaid Caſtle ſhould be garriſoned by his Majeſty's regular troops; on Monday the 10th inſtant the garriſon were, by his Honour's orders, withdrawn, and the cuſtody and government of the ſaid Caſtle were by his Honour committed to Lieutenant-Colonel Dalrymple, and garriſoned by a detachment of the regular forces under his command accordingly.

"Secretary's-Office, September 11. The Lieutenant-Governor having determined to meet the general court on Wedneſday the 26th inſtant, the time to which it now ſtands prorogued; his honour deſires and expects that the members of the ſaid court give a general and ſeaſonable attendance."

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in London, to his friend in this town, dated July 23, 1770.

"The voluntary receſs of your virtuous and brave anceſtors from the ſcenes of tyranny and corruption which the reign of the Stuarts had ſpread over this kingdom, and the colonies and churches which they eſtabliſhed on your continent, upon the more glorious principles of Catholic chriſtianity, I cannot but conſider as a moſt important event, by which very happy fruits, which are now (though amidſt heavy ſtorms) ripening for the ſignal benefit of the whole Chriſtian church: For that noble ſtand you have made in the cauſe both of civil and religious liberty, the whole Chriſtian world owe you much thanks: The ſtar riſing out of your wilderneſs will, I truſt and pray, become a great luminary, and enlighten the whole earth. May your patience and fidelity continue ſtedfaſt to the end. You have many ten thouſands here who ſincerely ſympathize with you, and unite their cry with yours---How long, O Lord, holy and true, doſt thou not judge.---But the counſels of heaven, however dark they appear to us, are all infinitely wiſe, and perfectly right; and ſuch as we ourſelves ſhould undoubted chuſe, could we look into the event and connection of things, as the comprehenſive eye of the ſupreme diſpoſer doth. All wiſe and candid men among us lament the unhappy conteſts between Britain and its colonies; we ſee and feel the malignant effects of their continuance. May he who hath the hearts of Kings in his hand deliver you from the iron hand and rod of tyranny which lies grievouſly upon you! The many raſh and unconſtitutional meaſures which the men in power have of late purſued, have of late ſo embarraſſed and diſtreſſed them, that they muſt ſoon either ſtrike ſome deſperate blow, or quit the field of conteſt. It is a happy event that the city of London appears to think ſo juſtly and to act ſo firmly in the preſent criſis; two noble inſtances of which have juſt now happened, viz. in the choice of a moſt worthy member to repreſent them in parliament, without any oppoſing candidate, a thing which is ſaid not to have happened for more than a century paſt, and the verdict of the two juries, acquitting the ſellers of Junius's letter. Theſe convulſions in the world are to open and prepare the way for thoſe times of refreſhing for which, according to the divine promiſe, we ſtedfaſtly look: The whole creation groans, and will continue to groan under the tyranny of that proud ſpirit, who is called the prince of this world, and of the little tyrants in whom he works, till the times are accompliſhed, and the myſtery of God is finiſhed. That happy period, we hope, is haſtening; and Satan now rages, as knowing his time is but ſhort: But here is the proper trial of the patience, the faith, and fortitude of the Saints. That your's, dear Sir, and that of our afflicted brethren in the American colonies, eſpecially in your city, may continue firm, and abound, and have great recompence, of reward, is the earneſt prayer of, Sir, Your's, &c."

In long. 38, Captain Scott ſpoke with the ſhip St. Helena, from South-Carolina for Briſtol, all well.

By the laſt ſhips from London we learn, that upon Captain Scott's arrival with the returned goods, the ſhippers, manufacturers, and miniſtry were greatly amazed and chagrined. There were ſeveral councils holden on American affairs, at which many depoſitions were taken ex parte from Governor Bernard, Mr. Harriſon, commiſſioner Robinſon, and one Bridgham? Gentlemen of whoſe candour there cannot be the leaſt queſtion. It does not appear that any one perſon was conſulted who might reaſonably be thought unprejudiced; from which conſideration, and the ſubſequent ſeizure of the key of this province, the appointment of the harbour a rendezvous for the ſhips of war, ſeeming preparatory meaſures, it is highly probable ſomething very bitter is determined againſt us. Our charter is an object of great concernment; and it is ſaid there will be an application to parliament to curtail it, at leaſt ſo far, as to appoint the council from home. Governor Bernard long ago ſuggeſted, that it would be to no purpoſe to place forces in Boſton, while the council were choſen by the people; but ſaid were they appointed from home they would aid the chief magiſtrate, and appoint ſuch men to execute truſts as would readily head the military power, conduct and direct them in ſuch a manner as effectually to ſupport what he called government, but what every ſenſible Engliſhman deems a nefarious uſurpation of abſolute power.

At a meeting of the trade on Thurſday laſt by adjournment, there were preſent not leſs than a thouſand perſons, among whom were a very great number of the principal and moſt wealthy merchants, as well as the moſt reſpectable tradeſmen of the town, when they unitedly came into a reſolution, that a letter be ſent to Philadelphia, propoſing a meeting of committees from the neighbouring colonies, to conſider of the moſt effectual means to ſtrengthen and confirm the happy union that now ſubſiſts; and they unanimouſly agreed to abide by the non-importation agreement as it now ſtands, until the ſaid committee ſhould meet and report, if they ſhould judge it neceſſary, ſome alteration therein; a letter was accordingly wrote, and the ſtanding committee of merchants were deſired to requeſt the concurrence of the other trading towns of this province, and then tranſmit the letter to Philadelphia; it was the declared ſenſe both of the merchants and tradeſmen, that in caſe the report of the committee ſhould not be judged likely to anſwer the grand purpoſe for which the agreement was originally entered into, namely the preſervation of our ſacred and invaluable rights, the people ſhould then take ſuch meaſures as they ſhould judge to be adequate. It was alſo unanimouſly voted, that in caſe the propoſal of a joint committee ſhould be acceded to by the other colonies, the ſtanding committee of merchants be deſired to call a meeting, and that the whole body of merchants, tradeſmen, and all others connected with trade, ſhould then make choice by ballot, of the gentlemen to be ſent from this place. At the above meeting a committee reported a plan for encouraging arts, agriculture, manufactures and commerce within this province; which was unanimouſly agreed to, and it was voted that the ſelectmen of the town be deſired to inſert the ſame in their next warrant for calling a town meeting, which we hear will be on Wedneſday next.

"THE diſgraceful manner in which our countrymen have lately been turned out of Caſtle-William, and the arbitrary method in which this province has been diſpoſſeſſed of that fortreſs, has juſtly alarmed every one who regards either the honour or the ſafety of his country. As to the man who has been chiefly active in this buſineſs here, I leave him to his own conſcience (if he has any). But I believe that has long ago been committed to the keeping of Lord H---ſb------h. The people of this country, from the firſt ſettlement of it, have ever been loyal ſubjects, and upon all occaſions have proved their readineſs to pay all conſtitutional obedience to their rightful King; and it may be ſaid with truth, that the preſent generation, notwithſtanding the treacherous aſſertions of intereſted calumniators, have as clearly proved their affections to his preſent Majeſty, as any of his ſubjects in any part of his dominions. They exerted themſelves in the late war much beyond their abilities, and greatly to the detriment of their landed eſtates, which in many parts of the country have loſt one third of their value, by the great acquiſition of uncultivated lands to the crown of England. For the truth of which, I appeal to the landholders in general through the province. Nevertheleſs we patiently ſubmit to every hardſhip which we think conducive to the ſafety of our country, or to the honour of our ſovereign. And although we find the debt incurred by our too great exertions, is by an adverſary baſely and cruelly turned into an engine, to deſtroy our rights, we yet do not repent of having nobly contributed to the ſucceſs of his Majeſty's arms in the late glorious war, and are ſtill ready to do every thing in our power to defend his perſon, and our happy conſtitution. Theſe our ſentiments being well known to every one who takes the trouble of making a careful inquiry into the ſtate of this country, we cannot but apprehend that ſomething dangerous to our conſtitution, or to our ſovereign, is intended, when we are not looked upon as fit to be truſted with the poſſeſſion of a fortreſs erected by our fathers for their defence againſt the enemies of Great-Britain and this country, and which has for theſe purpoſes been kept and ſupported at the expence of the province ever ſince. Whatever may be expected by thoſe who are watching to betray their King and enſlave his ſubjects, they may be aſſured, that the people of this country will never tamely ſuffer the loſs of thoſe rights which their anceſtors ſo dearly purchaſed; that ſpirit which led our forefathers to encounter the unavoidable hardſhips attending them in this then howling wilderneſs; that bravery which ſupported them in the numberleſs battles which they fought with the ſavage natives, who aimed at their deſtruction, will, if every other method fails, be found in an eminent degree to be now lodged in the breaſt of their deſcendants, the preſent poſſeſſors of their honourable acquiſitions. I have not time to be particular, but I would adviſe all who have any concern in managing the affairs of this country, to ſearch the hiſtory of it from its firſt ſettlement; and, if bleſt with common ſenſe, they may very eaſily determine what muſt be the conſequence of an attempt to enſlave us.

HERACLIUS."

Meſſrs. Printers. "LAST Monday the inhabitants of this and the adjacent towns were alarmed with the ſudden account of the ſurrender of Caſtle William into the hands of Colonel Dalrymple and the troops under his command, which ſince the late execrable maſſacre committed by the ſoldiery have been quartered in the barracks on that iſland. The Lieutenant-Governor of the province, it is ſaid, had received a packet the evening before, with inſtructions to make that important ſurrender; and the orders were executed with the utmoſt ſecrecy, and with ſo much diſpatch, that the garriſon in the pay of this government, were turned out in two hours. Whether the Lieutenant-Governor will condeſcend to lay before the General Aſſembly, the reaſons, if he ſhould be deſired, upon which this extraordinary miniſterial manœuvre is founded, or whether he will think it ſufficient to tell them, as heretofore upon the removal of the aſſembly from its ancient ſeat in Boſton, that he knows it is his Majeſty's order, but that he is not allowed to communicate the ſame without ſpecial leave, and that the order is founded on very wiſe reaſons, a little time may diſcover. We have already ſeen the force of inſtructions carried to ſuch a length as to render the charter of the province, in the opinion of many perſons, of no more ſignificance than a ſheet of blank paper. If, as it ſeems to be the intention of ſome, we are to be governed by the ipſe regis, of all our civil conſtitutions are to be controuled by the will and pleaſure of one, or a few, and at the diſtance of three thouſand miles, we ought to know it, and the ſooner we know it the better. We are daily told, that his Majeſty's Council of the province, who hold their ſeats by election according to the charter, are ſoon to ſhare the ſame fate with the late provincial garriſon; and that they will be ſuperſeded by the appointment of the crown! Will not the Lieutenant-Governor in ſuch caſe, with zeal and perſeverance enforce any inſtructions he may then receive to eſtabliſh the new appointed counſellors in their ſeats? And if his Honour ſhould tell the Houſe of Repreſentatives that they had better acquieſce in the change, becauſe he knows it to be his Majeſty's pleaſure that they ſhould, and he really believes there are very wiſe reaſons for it, would not he and the better ſort of folks, who fear God and honour the King ſay, they were ridiculouſly humourſome and obſtinate, if they ſhould clamour againſt it, as being contrary to the compact in the charter between the crown and the people, and therefore illegal? His Honour is to govern the province, as it is ſaid according to the charter, and according to ſuch inſtructions as he has or ſhall receive: And if the latter ſhould in common ſenſe militate with the former, there is a ſhort and eaſy way of deciding at once any controverſy that might ariſe, by ſaying that "all orders from a miniſter of ſtate come immediately from the King," and they are founded on very wiſe reaſons: There is ſuch a mighty ſtrength in this ſort of reaſoning as muſt remove all doubts---It may be made uſe of with equal propriety by our military as our civil commander in chief, (for we ſeem to have two commanders in chief) and it is ſufficient to ſuppreſs the leaſt riſing of reſentment, if a mandate ſhould come from a miniſter of ſtate to diſarm us all, or to quarter troops in our houſes."

NEW-YORK, SEPTEMBER 10.

Laſt Friday the STATUE of the Right Honourable WILLIAM PITT, Eſq; Earl of Chatham, was fixed on the pedeſtal erected for it in Wall-ſtreet, amidſt the acclamations of a great number of inhabitants.

We have authority to aſſure the public, that Meſſrs. Franklin and Foxcraft, Deputy-Poſt-Maſters-General of North-America, now in London, have by a proper repreſentation to the miniſtry, obtained a fifth packet-boat between New-York and Falmouth, in order to render the correſpondence more regular between Great-Britain and America.

Friday night laſt arrived here from Canada, Sir William Draper, Colonel Robertſon, and Captain Collins.

We hear from Waterbury, that a woman of that town, who in the fourth or fifth month of her pregnancy, was taken with a moſt violent longing to eat the fleſh from her huſband's arms; he indulged her in making ſeveral attempts, but her teeth were not ſufficient for that purpoſe; and her unaccountable longing continued until her delivery, which was about three weeks ago. The infant refuſing the breaſt, or any other ſuſtenance uſually given to infants, it was offered the raw fleſh of a fowl, cut fine, and dipt in the fowl's blood, on which it has fed heartily every day ſince its birth, and is the only food the child has taken, till a few days ſince, when it eat a little milk, mixt with blood.

SEPTEMBER 20. On the 3d inſtant, his honour the Lieutenant-Governor iſſued a proclamation, whereby the general aſſembly of this province is prorogued to the ſecond day of October next.

On Sunday the 2d inſtant, arrived here in the packet, the Reverend Doctor John H. Livingſton, ſon of Henry Livingſton, Eſq; at Poughkeepſie, ordained in Amſterdam for the Reformed Proteſtant Dutch church in this city of New-York, who was inſtalled in the New Dutch church of the ſaid city, in the morning of the following Sunday, and in the afternoon of the ſame day he entered upon his miniſtry, and preached from 1 Corinthians I. 22d, 23d, and 24th verſes, to a very crowded audience, and to general ſatisfaction.

On Monday laſt, after a few days illneſs, died at his lodgings in this city, Captain James Calderwood, of his Majeſty's 26th regiment of foot, a young gentleman in the early bloom of life, amiable in his perſon and character, engaging in his manner and converſation, beloved and eſteemed as a ſoldier, an officer, a gentleman, a companion and a friend, by all that knew him. His funeral on Tueſday afternoon was attended by moſt of the gentlemen of the town, as well as of thoſe quartered here of the army. He was buried in Trinity church yard, with all military honours, and his funeral was one of the moſt ſolemn that was ever ſeen in this city, not only on account of the order and conduct of the proceſſion, which were remarkably expreſſive of reſpect to the dead, and grief for his loſs, but in the ſenſibility viſible in every countenance on the melancholy occaſion, though late a ſtranger in this place, he drew

A ſilent tear from every fair one's eye,
From every feeling breaſt a tender ſigh!

CHARLES-TOWN, OCTOBER 16.

HIS Excellency Governor Grant has been pleaſed to appoint Frederick-George Muleaſter, Eſq; of St. Auguſtine, Surveyor-General of Lands, in the Room of William-Gerard De Brahm, Eſq; who is ſuſpended by Order of the Earl of Hillſborough, Secretary of State for America.

Several Veſſels have lately arrived at St. Auguſtine from New-York, with Materials for building the New-Barracks.

"Lately died, at Aſhepoo, Dr. FRANCIS GARDEN, Phyſician "there, a moſt accompliſhed young Man. Sincerity, Gene"roſity, and Openneſs of Heart, accompanied with the greateſt "Degree of Modeſty, diſtinguiſhed him as a Man; and formed "a Character of real tho' unaſſuming Worth. A ſtrong natural "Genius, joined to an unwearied Application and Attention to "Study, gave him a very early Advancement to the higheſt "Honours of his Profeſſion.
